

CECILE CITY RECORD SUPPLEMENT.

Cedar City, Utah, Apr. 15, 1910

Everybody Coddles Poor Father.

Father sits close to the cherry red fire, while a son adjusts a robe to keep the least trace of a draft away. One of the daughters brings a cupful of steaming cocoa in which a raw egg has been beaten.

"Take this, father," she urges.

"But it doesn't seem scarcely an hour since I left the breakfast-table," father protests mildly.

"Maby it isn't, but you ate next to nothing then. You must have food to keep up your strength."

So father does his best to obey, making a sorry effort at gulping down half of the albuminous mess. Tom discovers that there's a little breeze on the floor—so he wraps up father's slippered feet.

Presently all the young people are out of the room. The old man looks about him with a sigh of ungrateful content over his momentary solitude.

What are these young people doing? Why, they happen to have a father who is well along in years. So they are coddling him to death, sympathetic ally enervating him, taking loving care of him well nigh to his total extinction.

There is nothing really the matter with this aged man. His organs are sound, and were functioning well up to two or three weeks ago. But now the young people are sadly wondering if father is "failing." He shan't die if they can help it, so they proceed with great resolution to coddle him into inertia.—H. IRVING HANCOCK, in the NEW IDEA WOMAN'S MAGAZINE for MAY.

FOR SALE OR TRADE. A high grade mare, one 2 year old, and one yearling. You may have anything else I own at a bargain.

C. D. Burkholder.

Bishop Ek of the 25th ward of Salt Lake City was a visitor here last week, and remained over long enough to visit a number of friends. Bishop Ek was the speaker at the tabernacle last Sunday. He delivered a strong sermon along gospel lines, and his hearers were deeply interested.

Six weeks more of school at the Normal. The students are working hard so as to be able to receive full credit for the year's work.

Monday Miss Kate Palmer left for Salt Lake City, where she will spend some time in visiting with her sister, Mrs. G. W. Middleton.

You have done a great deal of cleaning up around your premises, yet there is considerable more to do. Get at it now, before the heavy farm work comes on.

The birth record for last week in Cedar were three. A boy was born to the wife of "Dosa" Walker, a boy to the wife of Charles Lundgreen and a girl to the wife of Allowis Bauer.
